JUDICIAL CIRCUIT COURT.

CASES TRIED AT THE SEPTEMBER TERM
THIS WEEK.

The Third Judicial Circuit Court opened at Waiohina, District of Kau, Island of Hawaii, on Monday morning last, at nine o'clock, and closed on Wednesday evening.
Present: Judd, C. J., Lyman, Circuit J., and Rosa, Deputy Attorney General. Messrs. Neumann, Whiting and Peterson, of the city bar, were in attendance, as well as Mr.
Hitchcock and other country barristers. Fifteen cases were disposed of in the three days, the Court being in session each day from nine in the morning till nine at night, and on one occasion not rising till 2:30 in the morning. Below is given the calendar with the result of each case tried.

CRIMINAL CASES—FOREIGN JURY.

The King vs. Wm. Martin. Defendant was committed for murder by the District Judge of Waiohina, he having killed his wife with a pair of scissors. Messrs. Neumann and Whiting were assigned as his counsel, who entered a plea of not guilty.
A verdict was returned, "Not guilty, being insane," and the prisoner was committed to the Insane Asylum, Honolulu.

The King vs. Kawila (w.) and Akeneka (w.), gaming; appeal from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu.
Verdict of guilty, and fine of $5 each and costs. D. H. Hitchcock for defendants.

The King vs. Naliniani (k.), malicious injury; appeal from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu.
Nolle prosequi entered. D. H.
Hitchcock for defendant.

The King vs. George Glendon, gross cheat, commitment from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu. The jury were out from 9:30 p. m. till 2:30 a. m., but failed to agree, standing seven to five for conviction.
A motion was made to change the venue to Honolulu, which was not determined. Neumann, Whiting and Hitchcock for defendant; Rosa for the Crown.

From the evidence it appeared that defendant, who was Government school teacher at Pahala, had represented to Mr. G. W. C. Jones, the school agent, that he must have an assistant teacher. Mr. Jones consenting, defendant employed what the former supposed was a competent teacher, and was allowed $20 a month for the assistant's salary. It transpired some time afterward that the assistance employed by defendant consisted of small Norwegian boys, who taught their compatriot and Portuguese juvenile companions in the A. B.
C's. Defendant drew money to the amount of $547, in various sums from time to time, sending to the school agent receipts signed by the childish "assistants." One of these embryo teachers, who gave evidence in the case, could not read the receipt that bore his signature when it was presented to him in Court.
The indictment was for the amount of $60.

The King vs. Wong Hoi Lung, having opium in possession; appeal from the District Judge of Waiohina. Verdict of not guilty. Rosa for Crown; Hitchcock for defendant.

CIVIL CASES—MIXED JURY.

Chung Pew & Co. vs. Manalo, refusing duty (section 1,420, Civil Code); appeal from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu. Jury waived, and judgment for defendant. A.
Rosa for plaintiff; S. W. Mahelona for defendant.

Wahala vs. Hiwa & Co., violating contract (section 1,423, Civil Code); appeal from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu. Jury waived. Plaintiff discontinued, as the contract had expired. Hitchcock for plaintiff; Peterson for defendant.

Hiwa & Co. vs. Nahua (k.), deserting bound service (section 1,419, Civil Code); appeal from District Judge Timoteo, Punaluu.
Jury waived and defendant discharged from his contract. Hitchcock for defendant.

Kahalepaole vs. Daniel Foster and Wm. Dolloway, assault and battery; appeal from District Judge Martin, Waiohina. Continued till next September term. Hitchcock for plaintiff; Kinney & Peterson for defendants.

serting husband; appeal from Circuit Judge Lyman, Waiohina.

BERLIN'S SPECTRAL LADY.

A CURIOUS ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELE-BRATED THIS YEAR AT THE GERMAN CAPITAL.

Berlin celebrates a curious anniversary this year. It is just 400 years since the White Lady of the Hohenzollerns first made her appearance on any stage. This event took place at the old castle in Bayreuth before the death of the Brandenburg Elector, Albrecht Achilles. Of late years nothing positive has been heard of the mysterious spectral visitor, though she was reputed to have been seen in Berlin before the death of the young Prince Waldmar, and two years ago a paragraph appeared in one of the Berlin papers to the effect that she had been seen in some of the apartments of the old castle. There was considerable excitement among the court officials at the time, and searching inquiries were made in order to learn who had given the information to the public, not because the officials attached any importance to the appearance of the White Lady, but because they feared it might possibly have an injurious effect upon the health of the Emperor, who is not proof against such things. For the White Lady is a natural appendage, so to speak, to the divinity of the Hohenzollerns.
No great reigning family can be considered as complete without its family ghost or protectress.

The original White Lady is generally assumed by writers to have been a widowed Countess Kunigunda of Orlamunde, who lived in her castle at Plassenburg, near Bayreuth.
This lady is said to have fallen in love with a young and handsome knight, the Burgrave Albert of Nuremberg, and her affection, so it is said, was not unappreciated by the gallant cavalier. But when the Countess expressed the wish for marriage Albert replied that he could not enter the holy bonds of matrimony "so long as four eyes were in existence." Having two children by her former husband, the Countess very naturally imagined that these were the obstacles to her union with the knight, and so she killed them by running one of her golden hair-pins through their skulls into the brain. When Albert learned what the Countess had done he refused to marry her. The inhuman mother eventually died, but her corpse could never rest, and though she was duly buried, she used to appear frequently afterward, foreboding misfortune and death.

A German historian, Julius von Minutoli, notes the fact that "the rumor of the spectral personage's first appearance was current in 1486 at the old castle at Bayreuth." During a long course of years she appeared in various Hohenzollern castles—at Bayreuth, at Anspach, and later at Berlin. She made a great stir about the commencement of the present century on the occasion of the French occupation of Bayreuth, taking delight in annoying the foes of the Hohenzollerns.
From 1806 to 1809, while the French occupied and were continually passing through the city, she was frequently seen by officers quartered in the castle. In 1809 she is reported to have appeared the divisional commander, Gen. d'Espagne, the first night of his residence at the castle. She treated him very rudely, pushed his bed into the middle of the room, and then overturned it; and when the General's Adjutant hastened to the room on hearing cries for help, he found his superior underneath the bed and suffering from deadly fright. When on the following morning the General saw the pictures in the castle he pointed to the picture of the White Lady—painted in a black dress, with white rust and hood—and exclaimed, "She it was who appeared to me!" He left the castle the same day. He fell a few weeks afterward in the battle of Aspern, the 21st of May, 1809.

The spectral lady is also said to have appeared to Napoleon I. while at Bayreuth. The first time was on the 14th of May, 1812, while he was on his way to Russia. He lived in the so-called New Castle. It appears that the story of the appearance of the mysterious lady had spread through the French Army, for a courier had been sent on from Aschaffenburg in advance, with the command that the Emperor should not be lodged in the apartment wherein the White Lady was wont to appear. When Napoleon arrived at Bayreuth he sent for Count Munster and asked if these orders had been carried out. Whether Napoleon saw the White Lady or not cannot be said. The historians say, however, that the following morning, just before his departure, he was very pale and restless. He often uttered the words "Ce maudit chateau," and said to some of his suite that he would never stay in that castle again. In August, 1813, Napoleon was once more in Bayreuth, but though rooms had been prepared for him in the castle he would not stay there, but drove to Plauen for the night.

In 1840, says Von Minutoli, the spectral lady was seen by Margrave Albrecht, the Warrior, who however, does not appear to have understood any foiling. Hearing that the lady was in the habit of making her rounds in the apartments of the castle he laid in wait for her, grasped her suddenly, threw her down-stairs, and found out next morning that he had killed one of his own domestics.

Twenty years later, when Margrave George Friedrich contemplated rebuilding the Palace of Plassenburg, the White Lady is reported to have made such a commotion that he gave up the idea. In 1877 Falkenstein says that Margrave Erdmann Phillip of Brandenburg saw the White Lady in his castle at Bayreuth, seated in his own favorite chair, and that the apparition gave him such a fright that he died two days afterward.

The mysterious presence, having obtained a great reputation in Franconia, then emigrated to Berlin.
Her first reported appearance in the Prussian Capital is given as the 1st of January, 1598, a week before the death of Elector Johann Sigismund.
Then, the 1st of December, 1619, she is said to have shown herself twenty-three days before the death of another Elector. Again she appeared in 1667, shortly before the death of Princess Louise Henrietta, and in 1688 before the death of the Great Elector. But it would take up too much space to record all the appearances of the spectral lady.
The most curious account of her appearance is of that recorded as having taken place in 1799, when she was seen by a musketeer. He thus told his experiences: He first heard a noise, he says, such as is caused by the rustling of the wind among the fallen leaves. Then, out from the wall, came a great, white female figure, with a long face, a friendly countenance and jet-black hair.
Around her neck she wore large pearls and ornaments of gold and precious stones. In her hand she bore an ivory staff, and upon her breast was seen a great heart, painted blood-red, on which were written strange characters that shone like fire. One of the last reported appearances of the White Lady in Europe was in 1873, not in Berlin, but in Vienna. But this, too, was not the real presence, for the report went out at the time that the sentinel to whom she suddenly appeared tried the effect of his bayonet upon her, and there was a gentle rumor whispered about Vienna at the time that "somebody" had been wounded—in fact, a lady belonging to the Imperial court.
